Valedictory

THOMAS HANCOCK, January.

Salutatory

Having reached our ultimate goal of graduation, we must never cease looking forward to our betterment of social and education duties. We have only started. We are like a ship embarking on the eternal surging sea of life. High school has been preparing us to face these turbulent waters but only by eternal vigilance and good faith will we weather the gale.

We stand poised on the threshold of a new life—inexperienced, idealistic, filled with the certainty of conquering the world. As Francis Thompson says:

“O world invisible, we view thee,
O world intangible, we touch thee,
O world unknowable, we know thee,
Inapprehensible, we clutch thee.”

We must set our course for the port of self-betterment and in reaching this or striving to reach it our entire intercourse with social affairs and conditions will likewise improve. Life is like a cycle. We benefit our own existence, our better life makes for a better community, a better community makes a better state, and so on until we come back to the betterment of ourselves.

We have been given many instruments, which, if we follow the edicts of our good teachers, can be put to use for the accomplishment of better things for humanity.

These days of strained foreign relations should prove the necessity for unceasing efforts for better and firmer faith in each other. Only until this is accomplished can the truer state of mutual livelihood be bettered. Only through this self-same method can come the prevention of disastrous wars.

Education will prove the futility of the useless slaughtering of the flower of manhood. By better equipping our minds we should be more capable of controlling barbaric emotions which cause such dilemmas.

Class of 1936, these simple admonitions should merely form a prelude to your own course of action. Trusting in our own acquired abilities and fully aware of the preparedness we have received in our high school career, I am sure that our courses will be true, and we shall reach that distant port. We can here thank those competent instructors for their friendly and freely given advice—at no time did they falter in their undertakings and so we should do likewise and adhere strictly to our course.

As William E. Henley writes in his immortal “Invictus”:

“It matters not how straight the gate,
How charged with punishments the scroll,
I am master of my fate;
I am the captain of my soul.”

HELEN McCABE,
January.

Valedictory

Lives of great men all remind us
We can make our lives sublime,
And, departing, leave behind us
Footprints on the sands of time.

—Longfellow.

We, as a class, have been endeavoring for the last four years to reach a goal, namely,—graduation. At last, our goal has been reached and we stand on the threshold of the future, surveying the past with mingled hopes and regrets. Mutually we have worked during this period to promote more and greater friendships, enduring associations and lasting memories to be carried into later life. Aiding us in fulfilling these ambitions have been the important attributes of perseverance, courage, and determination which continuously guide us forward. While expounding these characteristics through our own efforts, we have been rewarded with opportunities for greater leadership among our fellow students, more services to our school and innumerable chances to obtain more knowledge. All these relationships have served to enrich our moral, social and intellectual life as a whole.

While we have directly been enlightening our lives through this period, we have indirectly been striving toward a central purpose—the building of a firm foundation. A foundation, which, we hope, will be capable of withstanding the hardships of life as well as being a basis upon which more pillars of learning may be added. At all times we are reminded to work with utmost capability to better the social and economic conditions of the world so our lives will not be futile efforts but benefits to humanity. This aim has been very proficiently phrased by Longfellow when he said:

In the world's broad field of battle
In the bivouac of life,
Be not like dumb, driven cattle!
Be a hero in the strife!

Thus far, our accomplishments have been made possible, partially through our own work but to a greater extent through the ardent co-operation of the Faculty and the continued support of our parents to whom we are deeply grateful. To our classmates we also owe a debt of gratitude for their lasting associations.

In conclusion it is our heartiest desire that all future efforts will be directed toward the building of stronger characters and richer lives that more nearly approach perfection.

DOUGLAS DALY, June.

Salutatory

As we are about to close a very interesting chapter in our lives and leave behind us a happy past, we linger, before commencing our harder and more exacting life's journey, to refresh our minds with the benefits that we have derived from our high school life and to thank the faculty who have helped us in fitting ourselves for graduation, the goal for which we have all been striving for four years.

"Heaven is not reached by a single bound,
But we build the ladder by which we rise
From the lowly earth to the vaulted skies,
And we climb to its summit round by round."

—Josiah G. Holland.

Thus speaks the poet of an earlier day, and well may we ponder the significance of these lines and their relation to success, as we stand upon the threshold of the future with a desire to lead useful, happy, and successful lives for years to come.

Let us consider this word "Success." It does not mean merely doing something marvelous and outstanding. It is the few, indeed, who are men and women of great achievement, and if their lives were to be our standard of success we would become discouraged at the outset. However, it does mean that which we accomplish by paying the price, making the most of every opportunity, and facing the future with hope, courage, and a determination to win. Berton Braley aptly says:

"If neither cold poverty, famished and gaunt,
Nor sickness nor pain
Of body or brain,
Can turn you away from the thing that you want,
If dogged and grim you beset and beset it,
'You'll get it!'"

Honor Society

Port Huron High School has been a member of the National Honor Society of secondary schools since 1922.

The purpose of the Honor Society has been to create an enthusiasm for scholarship, to stimulate a desire to render service, to promote worthy leadership, and to encourage the development of character in the pupils of Port Huron High School.

Members are elected to this society by vote of the High School faculty. After a careful study of scholastic and activity records of 12B and 12A Class members, the faculty selects pupils who are in the upper one-fourth of their class scholastically and those who are found to be superior in leadership, character, and service. Not more than 15 per cent of any class may be elected to membership.

By electing outstanding students in their 12B semester, the faculty has created an active group in the High School to encourage the principles for which the society stands. This group also initiates new candidates into membership.

In January, 1936, the following members of the 12A class were elected:

E. T. Blackney	Helen McCabe	Geraldine Whybrew
Thelma Flowers	Robert Morris	June Wollen
June Hall	Marjorie Murdick	Josephine Woodward

The following were the 12B class members chosen:

James Bassett	Wilbur Davidson	Frances L. Martin
Carl Brandenburg	William Dunn	Patricia Paige
Thelma Coggan	Robert Forrister	Charlotte Pretty
Max Dalrymple	Alex Lewis	Virginia Smith
Douglas Daly	Alvin McCallum

Latin Club

The Latin Club met bi-weekly under the direction of Miss Eunice Eichhorn. The variety of programs included studies of the lives of the Roman People, incidents in the lives of Julius Caesar and other famous Romans. American songs were sung in Latin at a patriotic program. Mythology claimed an important part in these programs. The largest project of the year was the publishing of the "Effenel" in co-operation with the French Club. The officers of the year were:

President	-	-	-	-	-	William Dunn
Vice-President		-	-	-	-	Mike Lapitsky
Secretary	-	-	-	-	-	Cornelia Davidson
Program Chairman	-		-	-		Richard Leithauser

French Club

The club organized at the beginning of the year under the sponsorship of Miss Everham and elected the following officers:

President	-	-	-	-	-	Sidney Rood
Vice-President		-	-	-	-	Lewis Adams
Secretary	-	-	-	-	-	Ed. Barrett

At meetings of the club, French manners and customs were discussed and songs written in French were learned. The members of the club in co-operation with the members of the Latin Club published a language newspaper, "Effenel." Several club members are corresponding with students in France to learn more of the French customs and language.

Orchestra-Band

Under the leadership of Mr. Elmer Hess, the Orchestra-Band has had a very successful year. Composed of thirty members of whom four graduate, it meets every fourth hour in its own room in the Gymnasium. The Band played at all home basketball and football games and made one trip to a Regional Basketball Tournament game at Pontiac.

Creative Writing Club

The club organized with a membership of 25 and with Miss Beatrice Woodward as the club sponsor. The following officers were elected:

President	-	-	-	-	Louise Denkleberg
Vice-President	-	-	-	-	Margaret Wohlberg

Members of the club wrote many original articles. At the club meetings, interesting reports are given on contemporary writings and their authors. During the last week in March, a booklet was distributed to the club members containing the articles written by the members.

The Shakespeare Club

This club was organized for a group of students who wished to make a more thorough study of Shakespeare than is offered in the High School English courses. Miss Beatrice Woodward, the English Literature teacher, is the club sponsor. The club made an interesting study of the life of Shakespeare. The club also studied "Othello" and "The Merchant of Venice." The school was fortunate in having the moving picture of "The Merchant of Venice" given in our auditorium under the sponsorship of this club and the English Department. The officers of the club are:

President	-	-	-	-	Betty Cline
Secretary	-	-	-	-	Helen Postill

Scribes Club

The Scribes Club is a shorthand club. Any student enrolled in Stenography III or IV who is particularly interested in the development of shorthand speed is eligible.

The chief activity has been the writing and transcribing of standard shorthand tests. Certificates of progress are issued by the Gregg Publishing Company to the students who transcribe these tests correctly.

Members of the club have reviewed a book for secretaries and business women, "She Strives to Conquer," by Frances Maule.

The club visited the Mueller offices where they were conducted through the stenographic, accounting, and filing departments.

There has been one social meeting of the club, a buffet supper.

The officers are: President, Elizabeth Haller; Vice-President, Leda Morrison; Secretary, Iris Morrison; Treasurer, Frances Hamel.

The sponsor is Miss Geraldine Turner.

Camera Club

The Camera Club, under the direction of Miss McCollom, was organized so that the students interested might learn the principles of photography. During the year the club has fitted a studio and laboratory in which pictures are taken and developed. The club has taken pictures for The Student. The club has studied printing, developing, enlarging and portraiture. The officers of the club are:

This semester two tournaments are being sponsored, one for the twenty-six beginners and the other for the eighteen advanced players. Prizes will be awarded the winners. The club is directed by Miss Clarissa McCollom. The officers are:

Radio Club

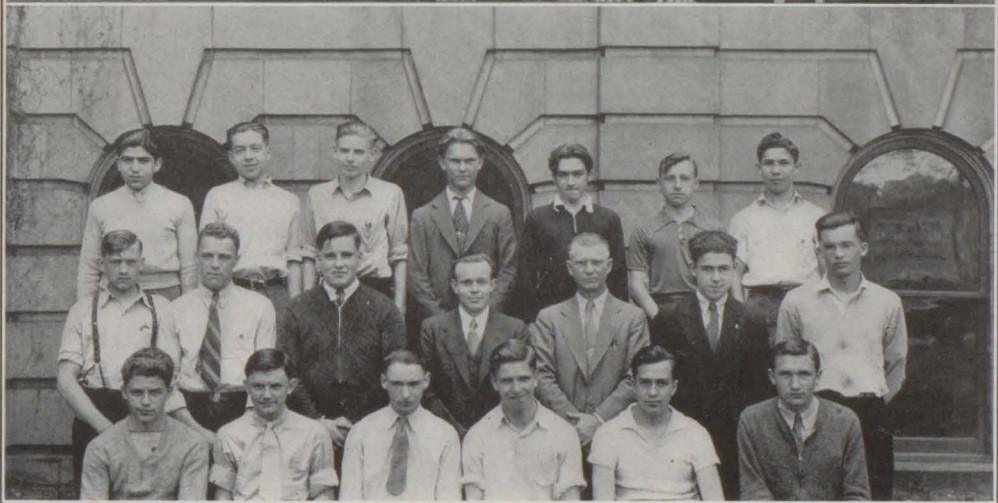

The Radio Club was organized last semester to bring together those boys who were interested in Radio and its departments. The advanced boys have helped the ones who are new in the work.

The club has been self-supporting. It conducted noon dances and sold frost-bites at the sport events to raise money.

Five radios were built by the members of the club and the members are working on one for the school. The officers are:

President	-	-	-	-	-	Charles Monroe
Vice-President	-	-	-	-	-	Robert Davis

President	-	-	-	-	-	Carl Brandenburg
Secretary	-	-	-	-	-	Marion Wisdom
Treasurer	-	-	-	-	-	Dale Norris

Among its appearances were: before the Rotarians early in December, The Twilight Concert presented at the Desmond Theater on December 19 under the auspices of the Port Huron Musicales, and in the Convocation services in January.

The Choir made a successful audition before Mr. Frederick Alexander, Director of Music at the Michigan State Normal College at Ypsilanti, and were invited to participate in the Bach festival with choirs from five other cities.

The Annual Banquet was held on May 13 and pins were presented to members who had been in the Choir a year and a half. To conclude the year, the Choir sang for the Convocation in June.

Chorus

The Chorus, an organization of 260 members, meets every Wednesday noon. Anyone who likes to sing is eligible since there are no special voice requirements. Many students are unable to enroll in the regular vocal classes, and the Chorus gives these students an opportunity to sing.

Each year two programs are presented: One at Christmas and the other in the Spring. This semester an assembly program was presented.

The music used by this group is selected with a view of pleasing the average singer, and includes many types of sacred songs and secular numbers.

Girls Hi-Y Club

The meetings of this club are held bi-weekly on Wednesdays at the High School cafeteria or at the Y. M. C. A. The officers of the club are:

Girls Athletics

Full of enthusiasm, an interested group of girls representing various clubs, met in the gymnasium at the beginning of the semester and decided to open the year with basketball as a starter. A most successful season was the result of these first efforts. Volleyball followed, with horseback riding, archery, ping-pong, shuffle-board, tap dancing, and apparatus classes being very popular. In the spring, baseball and tennis claimed their usual attention.

I, Marjorie Murdock, do bequeath my lankiness to Charles Quinlan.

I, Walter Richards, do leave (at death) my passionate love letters to James Bassett.

We, the members of the Senior Class, leave the following things to the lucky members of the Junior Class: our empty lockers, all the dust on top, any empty ink bottles, ponies, gum wrappers, English notebooks, and pencil stubs and hoping no one will take offense at this, leave our padded coops on this the First Day of February, 1936.

JAMES RANDALL,

CLARENCE PERSSON.

Last Will and Testament of the Class of June, 1936

We, the Class of June of Port Huron High School, being more or less in a sound state of mind, and realizing that the gang-plank of our ship is soon to be lowered, and wishing to bequeath to those less unfortunate underclassmen our worldly possessions, do hereby make and publish this will, our last testimony:

Bill Davidson leaves his surplus height and manly physique to Johnny Thorn.

Earl Aikman leaves his ability to study to Newt Carlisle.

Willard Babcock leaves his curly hair to Gail Cunningham.

Thelma Coggan leaves her peroxide formula (H_2O_2) to Mr. Mills from whom she learned it (?).

John Bowman leaves his ambition to Bob Carson.

Alex Lewis leaves his ability to tease the teachers to anyone who can keep up the good work.

Ford C. Rea leaves the "C" to anyone who will take it.

Howard Young just leaves after much expectation.

Carl Brandenburg leaves his silence to Walter Goodwin.

Gordon Smith leaves his girl friends to Seymour Bergsman.

Mary Jane Smith leaves her gum under the desks in 201.

Sally Canham leaves her giggle to June Orth.

Bob Forrister leaves his fussing to Bill Wittliff.

Douglas Daly leaves his vim and vigor to Bob Taylor.

Julian Alarie leaves his saxophone noises in Mr. Hess's ears.

Bob Browne leaves his bluffing to anyone in Miss Meehan's classes.

Elmer Kodet leaves his mustache to anyone who will take good care of it.

Jack Smith leaves his tap-dancing ability to Sidney Rood.

Frances Martin leaves her ten-day diet to Mary Seaver.

Helen Leithauser leaves her old maid part in the Senior Play to Peggy Goeltz.

Marion Wisdom leaves her managing ability to Sarah Sellers.

Charlotte leaves her boy friends who are not graduating to Nadine Copeland.

Louis Foster leaves his ability to stall through classes to Bob Brink.

Hilda Stopp wills her salesmanship to Louise Denkelberg.

We, the Senior Class, hoping that no one will take offense at this will, leave the ship and officers in charge of next year's crew.

CLASS OF JUNE, 1936.

Miss Stevenson: Will your folks be surprised to see you graduate?

Bob Carson: No, they have been expecting it for a long time.

Miss Moore: What was George Washington like?

Carleton Zielke: A piano. He was grand, upright and square.

Bill Dunn was suffering from a severe cold and his mother gave him some cough medicine to take at school. Upon his return, his mother asked him if he had taken it regularly. He quickly replied: "No, but Doug Daly did. He liked it so well that I swapped it for some of his peanuts."

Mr. Mills: What in the world can be the matter with my face? It is all covered with green blotches. I must be getting some terrible disease.

Mrs. Mills: Oh, I'm sorry darling! It's my fault. I used your shaving brush to paint the screens and I forgot to clean it.

Salesman: How did it happen that you had an accident with the used car that I sold you?

Buzz Howard: I couldn't put out my hand while I was pushing it around the corner.

Elroy Hanton: Ma, if the baby was to eat tadpoles, would it give him a bass voice like a frog?

His Mother: Good gracious no! They'd kill him!

Elroy: Well, they didn't.

Duncan VanDerlip: I enjoy living on a farm because the cows, ducks and chickens can't come in and urge you to play bridge.

Mrs. Forrister: I want Robert to have a thoroughly modern and up-to-date education, including Latin.

Mr. Forrister: Yes, but Latin is a dead language.

Mrs. Forrister: Well, all the better. He is going to be an undertaker.

Louis Foster: How did the police spot you in your lady's disguise?

Bob Carson: I passed by the milliner's window show case without looking in.

Jim Maxwell (When very sick and fearing death): I am going on a long journey, worse than any ride I ever had in my car with my chauffeur as the driver.

Bob Byrne: Well, there's one consolation. It'll be downhill all the way.

Gordon Smith: What a nice hand you have!

Elaine Davis: Do you like it? I'm sort of attached to it myself.

Pork Lashbrook: Would you like to dance this one?

Nadine Copeland: Yes, would you mind asking someone for me?

Edith Wilcox: I wonder where all the boys who can dance are?

Art Frizzell: Dancing with all the girls who can dance, I suppose.

Helen McPhee: Why do you take psychology?

Jeff Myron: To learn to search my mind and to analyze my thoughts.

Helen: Gee, it must be a snap course for you.

Jeanne MacVicar: Did you protest against the movie which termed the Irish as disorderly?

Charles Quinlan: Did we! We wrecked the place.

Wayne Liston: I'm going to buy a box of candy for the one I love.

Marion Wisdom: Yeah, you're always buying something for yourself.

Mr. Mills: Why didn't you filter this?

Sally Canham: I didn't think it would stand the strain.

"It's the little things in life that tell," said Sally Canham as she yanked her brother out from under the davenport.

Molly Jones: I wish I were like a river.
Mr. Straffon: Like the river? In what way?
Molly: Stay in my bed, yet follow my course.

Bob Forrister: What is the date?
Miss Woodward: Never mind the date. The examination is more important.
Bob Forrister: Well, I wanted to have something to write on my paper.

Boss: No, we have all the men we need.
Howard Young: Seems like you could take one more, the little bit of work I would do.

Jessie Amey (On her first trip to the country upon noticing a wild plant): What's that?

Jean Hitchings: That's milkweed.
Jessie: Oh, so that's what you feed the cows.

Rich Old Aunt: Louis, I am going to make my last will. I think I shall leave you—

Louis Foster: Yes, dear Aunt.
Auntie: "Before long."

Tourist: What is the death rate here?
Native: Same as everywhere else. One death for every person.

Jim Bassett: Your brother claims he's a practical socialist.

Elroy Hanton: He is. He wears my shirts, smokes my tobacco, and writes to my girls.

Nadine Copeland: I like a boy that can take a joke.

Ford C. Rea: Then you stand a pretty good chance of being accepted.

Grace Parker: Is this chin strap to keep the hat on?

Bill White: No, it's to rest the jaw after answering fool questions.

Florence Bassett: Can a person be punished for something he hasn't done?

Miss Meehan: Of course not.

Florence: Well, I haven't any geometry done yet.

Miss Roe: Who can describe a caterpillar?

Jeff Myron: I can, teacher.

Miss Rowe: Well what is it like?

Jeff: It is an upholstered worm.

Edith Wilcox: Are these eggs fresh?

Art Frizzell (to clerk): Feel of these and see if they're cool enough to sell.

School graduate, out of school for some time: I want to do something for my school. What studies did I excell in?

Miss Moore: Well, you slept most of the time in my classes.

Graduate: Well, I'll endow a dormitory in your room.

Meat Dealer: I wouldn't even cash a check for my own brother.

Customer: Well, you know your family better than I do.

Bob French looking for work: I don't suppose you don't know of nobody who don't want to hire nobody to do nothing, do you?

Mr. Adams: Yes, I don't.

Willie McGahey: I want a tooth pulled (fumbling in pocket).

Dentist: You don't need to pay in advance.

Willie: I'm just counting my money before you give me the gas.

"Yes," said Mr. Cleminson, "I've had some terrible disappointments but none stands out like the one when I was a boy."

Miss Sullivan: What was it?

Mr. Cleminson: When I was a boy, I crawled under the tent to see the circus, and I discovered it was a revival meeting.

Thelma: Gosh that is a large sized ring. What size is the diamond?

Max: Dat is the 14 year installment size.

Business Directory

Alex Lewis (to Max while out with Thelma): The cops are looking for you.

Max: What for?

Alex: Transporting dope.

Mr. Martin: Does your boy find geometry hard?

Mr. Taylor: Oh no. The problems are easy enough but his answers are too original to suit the teacher.

Mrs. Counce: I sent my little boy, Grant, to your store for two pounds of plums and you only sent me a pound and a half.

Grocer: My scales are right madam. Have you weighed your boy?

Miss Moore: What is a geyser?

Jack Reid: A waterfall going up.

John Bowman (phoning to fire station): Our house is on fire from lightning. Come quick!

Chief Nutt: Try to put it out.

John Bowman: I've done everything I could. I opened the door marked "fire escape," but the fire refuses to go out.

Special Features

At one of the senior play rehearsals Bill Davidson asked Miss Fitzpatrick what he should be doing while he was at one side of the stage because he didn't want people looking at him and then not be doing anything.

Miss Fitzpatrick replied, "The action is in the center of the stage and the people won't be looking at you."

Bill calmly answered, "But my mother will."

Why do the girls go for Jimmy Bassett—? Because he can sing, because he dances with many famous movie stars in the Kitty Night Club, because he drives a Dodge, and because he has red curly hair.

It has been reported that the worried look on the "august visage" of our elongated center, Max Dalrymple, is due to the fact that his athletic prowess is threatened by the up-and-coming (if not up, at least coming!) young Johnny (on the spot) Thorn. It was confusing to learn that Max was lost in New York not long ago; can it be that he was mistaken for a skyscraper?....

That racket that they blamed for so long on the Grand Trunk Railroad was nothing more or less than Jean MacKay doing deep-breathing exercises in pursuit of a Mae West figure. It is rumored that this is an attempt on Jean's part to resemble more closely, her illustrious ancestors, John Alden and Priscilla. But then—"Why don't you speak for yourself, Jean?" (Typographical error!)

It may be that "Red" Ballentine's sudden departure to college not so long ago was caused by a certain lady-friend's threat to get an orange sweater to match his hair! Cheer up, Reid, a well-known scientist claims to have a serum that will change a person's hair over night. However, it seems odd that the scientist didn't say what it would change it to.

Can it be merely coincidence that a day after the Fuller Brush men reported the loss of a certain, small-sized brush, much comment was caused by the Clark Gable like sheen of El Kodet's lip adornment? Maybe El thinks that all one needs is a mustache to become a dictator! (Kindly refer to Hitler or Stalin).

Although Bill Davidson, our class president, is an honor student, he still wonders who in the Dickens wrote "A Tale of Two Cities!" It seems that Bill and Fred Baird went hunting last Fall, and came home the proud possessors of a five hundred pound deer—and did they have faun!! (Some pun, eh kid?)
